Q: Why is Quran considered the best book of Allah? [4 marks]

The Qur'an is considered the best book of Allah because it is His final and complete revelation for the guidance of all humankind. Unlike other divine books that have been changed or lost, the Qur'an has been protected by Allah Himself, as mentioned in the verse: "Indeed, it is We who sent down the Qur'an and indeed, We will be its guardian" (15:9).

Its language, Arabic, is still alive and widely understood, which makes it easier to learn and follow.

Moreover, the Qur'an is unique because millions of Muslims around the world have memorized it, ensuring its preservation in both written and oral form. Its teachings are universal and timeless — beyond era, area, nation, or language — and it will remain a complete source of guidance for all humanity till the Day of Judgement.
